Spring & Summer 2009

Welcome

The spring/summer 2009 River Cities' Reader Dining Guide includes all the information you need to decide where and what to eat. We've also printed it in a new format, with the goal of making it more convenient and easier to use.

Restaurants are grouped by cuisine – fine dining, American, Asian, Italian/pizza, Mexican, coffee/café, other (including ethnic restaurants not covered by other categories), ice cream/sweets, and fast food – and their listings include:

- Address, phone number, and Web site.
- Kitchen hours.

- Whether it's locally owned and operated, a franchise, or a chain.
- Whether reservations are accepted or required.
- Awards and specialties.
- Payment options, including checks and credit cards.
- The average cost of an entrée.
- Whether dressy attire is recommended.
- The types of alcohol available – specifically whether beer, wine, and mixed drinks are served.
- Whether you can get a lunch in 30 minutes or less.
- Whether takeout, delivery, and catering are available.
- Whether the restaurant is available for private parties.

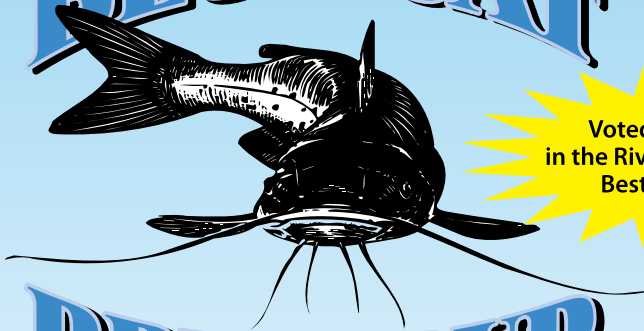

- Whether vegetarian entrées are available.
- Whether outdoor seating is available.
- Whether wireless Internet access is available.

Outside of fast-food restaurants, we've called or written nearly every restaurant in this guide to confirm the information herein. But if you find an error or omission, please contact Rick at food@rcreader.com or (563)324-0049.

It's worth noting that the economy has definitely taken its toll, with nearly 50 restaurants closing since the last Dining Guide was published in October. But that still leaves more than 700 dining establishments in the Quad Cities area.

RIVER CITIES READER
BEST
of the Quad Cities

1. Mississippi River

2. People

3. Jumer's Casino & Hotel

Finishing Third Never Felt So Good.

They say you're known by the company you keep. So when Jumer's Casino & Hotel was named the #3 attraction in the "Best Damn Thing in the Quad Cities, Period" category, sponsored by the River Cities Reader, we were thrilled.

After all, the Mississippi is no slouch of a river. And the people of the Quad Cities are as good as they come.

But we're also proud to have finished #1 in two more prestigious categories. DJ's Steakhouse was cited as "Best New Restaurant" while Player's Buffet took first place for "Best Buffet".

So from all of us at Jumer's, here's a message to the people of the Quad Cities: You're "The Best", too.
